

First Things First, the First Commandment

My duty as a Catholic is to admonish the sinner. A Catholic is obliged to profess the Catholic faith whenever the situation presents itself and to condemn men who sin against the faith (by heresy or apostasy), charity (by schism), or morals. If you are a member of the Vatican II Church that is run by apostate, Antipope John Paul II, you are also a non-Catholic apostate and heretic. The Church you belong to is not the Catholic Church. Your Church teaches at least fourteen heresies that have been infallible condemned by past popes. The Church you belong to teaches and practices idolatry, apostasy, blasphemy, and sacrilege. These are hard facts. I will ask you some questions regarding the basics, the very root of the Catholic faith.

1. What is the first Commandment?
2. Is there only one God?
3. Who is the one God?
4. Is Jesus Christ God?
5. Do you look upon Moslems with esteem?
6. Do the Moslems worship the one true God?
7. Is the Moslem religious book, the Koran, a holy book?
8. Is the Old Covenant still in force?
9. Is Talmudic Judaism a true religion? Is it intrinsic to the Catholic religion?

If you do not answer these questions truthfully you are an idolater and an apostate who has sinned against the First Commandment of Almighty God, and in so doing have denied the very basics of the Catholic faith as professed in your baptismal vow and the Creeds of the Holy Roman Catholic Church. An apostate is an ex-Catholic who denies the divinity of Jesus Christ. You cannot profess the divinity of Jesus Christ while at the same time professing the Moslem god, Allah, is the one true God. That is a denial of Jesus Christ and the Most Holy Trinity as the one and only true God. As long as an ex-Catholic adheres to an apostate belief there is no hope for him to see any truths clearly and it would be a waste of time to go any further until he repents and converts of his sin against the first commandment.
