

Trump and Other RINOs Betray Social Values in Order to Get Elected

Upholding social values is more important than winning elections. Another way Trump and other RINOs betray social values is by compromising these values in order to get elected. This especially occurs in Blue States and counties; that is, States and counties in which Democrats are in the majority. In essence, they want to appear more like liberals, like Democrats or Independents, then social conservatives. This leaves true social conservatives with no one to vote for. The only choices they have are a liberal Democrat, a liberal Independent, or a liberal RINO who thus have the same position on social values. Therefore, no matter who gets elected, true social conservatives lose before the election even begins because there is no one running for office who upholds social values.

Upholding social values is also more important than winning an election in order to convert liberals and educate youngsters not to fall into the liberal camp. If no party is professing social values, then there would be no way to convert liberals and educate the youngsters.

Yes, Republicans who uphold the social values in Blue States or counties will lose for several cycles, but at least the voters will have a chance to hear their positions in an uncompromising and convicted way and thus have a chance to convert the liberals or for the youngsters to not fall into the liberal camp.

Let us take Christianity as an example. In the beginning Christianity was opposed by almost everyone. But the apostles and other Christians did not compromise or hide the gospel but preached it on the housetops. And they eventually converted more and more men to true Christianity. If they had compromised the gospel either by not teaching parts of it and hiding some of it or by denying parts of it, then they would not be teaching the true gospel and they would not be true Christians, and thus their converts would not be true Christians. They would be converting men to a false Christianity. St. Paul mentions this:

“I wonder that you are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel. Which is not another, only there are some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach a gospel to you besides that which we have preached to you, let him be anathema.” (Gal. 1:6-8)

This is true with any organization, ideology, or religion. If it is to be consistent with its core tenants, it cannot compromise them. Hence the same can be said of the RINOs: There are some who pervert social values and thus teach immoral values, and therefore let them be anathema to all social conservatives.
